Abstract—The purpose of this study was to determine if there were differences in the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders among different types of jobs. The subjects were 600 employees from a large manufacturing company who had been employed at least one year. They completed a questionnaire about their work activities and symptoms of musculoskeletal disorders. The results showed that the prevalence of musculoskeletal disorders was higher among workers in jobs that required heavy lifting, repetitive motions, and awkward postures than among workers in jobs that did not require these activities.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a manuscript or letter. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly discolored paper. The script is dense and fills most of the page, with some lines showing signs of fading or wear. The text appears to be in a historical or literary context, possibly a letter or a section of a larger work. The handwriting is fluid and characteristic of a specific historical period, possibly the 17th or 18th century. There are some dark spots and irregularities on the paper, suggesting age and handling. The overall appearance is that of a well-preserved but aged historical document.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a single column and appears to be in a South Asian script, possibly Grantha or Tamil. The ink is dark, and the paper is aged and slightly discolored. The script is highly stylized and cursive, with many ligatures and flourishes. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Persian or Arabic, filling the main body of the page. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines. There are some dark ink blotches and variations in line spacing.

Handwritten marginal note in the top right corner.

Main body of handwritten text in a cursive script, likely Persian or Urdu. The text is arranged in approximately 10 horizontal lines across the page. The script is dense and fluid, with some variations in line length. There are several dark ink blotches or holes visible in the middle of the text, particularly in the fourth and fifth lines from the top.

Handwritten marginal note in the top left corner.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly discolored paper. It consists of approximately 10 lines of text, with some lines being longer than others. The script is dense and flowing, characteristic of historical cursive. There are two prominent dark circular marks, possibly holes or ink blots, located in the middle of the page. The overall appearance is that of an old, possibly legal or administrative, document.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a single column across approximately 10 lines. The script is dense and characteristic of early modern European handwriting. There are two large, dark circular ink marks or holes visible in the middle of the page, which appear to be part of the original document's binding or repair work. The paper is aged and slightly discolored.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is written in a dark ink on aged, slightly discolored paper. The script is dense and fills most of the page, with some lines showing signs of fading or wear. There are two prominent dark circular marks, possibly holes or ink stains, located near the center of the page. The text appears to be a continuous narrative or record, possibly related to a legal or administrative matter, given the formal nature of the script and the presence of what might be a signature or official stamp at the bottom right.
